

YOUGH NATIONAL BANK WILL HAVE NEW HOME ON MAIN STREET.

Soisson Building, Adjoining Theatre, Has Been Purchased and Plans are Drawn.

EXCLUSIVE BANKING HOUSE

When Completed, Within Few Months It Will Be One of the Most Attractive Banking Homes in this Section of the State.

A new banking house representing an investment of from $50,000 to $75,000 will be the future home of the Yough National Bank, the contract having been awarded to a New York firm for the work. The announcement was made this morning following the closing of the deal for the purchase of the property now occupied by the undertaking establishment of Joseph L. Stader in East Main street, adjoining the Soisson theatre.

An individual banking room will be erected on the property which has a 25 foot frontage on Main street. The plans call for one of the most elaborate fronts in this section of the State. It will be of stone construction running up to the height of the present building.

As soon as Mr. Stader can vacate the property work will start on the new structure. It is expected that it will be ready for occupancy within four or five months. Although Horgan Brothers of New York have been given the contract for both the plans and the construction work, a large portion of the construction will be subject to local contractors.

The property purchased by the bank from Joseph Soisson is 25 by 70 feet. It is situated between the Soisson theatre and the Kurtz property. An offer for the Kurtz property was made by the bank but not accepted. Rather than invest a larger sum for its building the bank decided to take over the Soisson property. Between $10,000 and $25,000 will be saved in the cost of construction by not building at the corner of Main street and Meadow lane.

The front of the new banking building will be built entirely of stone. A unique feature will be three immense glass windows over the entrance, the space filled by these being 12 by 16 feet. This will make the interior of the building light at all times. The roof will also have several large skylights to dispel any darkness that might attempt to lurk within the interior.

The interior of the banking room will be from 30 to 35 feet high except in the rear, over the vaults. A mezzanine floor will be built there to give space for a directors' room.

The contracting firm makes a specialty of banking houses and the new home of the Yough National is to be modern in every respect. The interior decorations will be in keeping with the elaborate exterior while every modern idea with a view to convenience will be adopted.

The Yough National bank has occupied its present quarters in Main street for more than 25 years. It has outgrown this big room and for some time past the need of a new home has been apparent. The action was greatly due to the persistent efforts of Cashier E. H. Plato, under whose charge the bank has grown rapidly during the past few years. The new home will be a credit to the Yough National as well as to the business interests of Connelleville.

At the present time the Yough National is the only bank which does not occupy quarters especially built for it. The Yough National and Citizens National are the only two banks which do not own their homes. The spacious quarters of the Citizens bank, however, were arranged during the construction of the Markell building and the space was left out especially for a banking house. The new home of the Yough bank will be another big architectural improvement to Connelleville which already has such good examples by the banks in the homes of the First National, Title & Trust, Second National, Colonial National and Union National banks.

Street Signs Wanted From Town Council

The Chamber of Commerce wants street signs erected for the benefit of strangers and to this end Secretary J. Fred Kurtz has written President J. B. Millard of Town Council asking that some steps be taken in this direction. Secretary Kurtz says that a town well laid out and up to date in appearance leaves a favorable impression with traveling men and thinks the street signs will cause them to boost the town elsewhere.

Secretary Kurtz says such signs will not be costly and do a great deal of work. He says they will leave a good opinion with the stranger who endeavors to find his way about the city without being put to the trouble of making numerous inquiries as to his whereabouts.

Two New Coaches for Indian Creek Valley Railroad

Daily delivery is expected of the three new coaches for the Indian Creek Valley railroad which have been on the road for some time now. When the coaches arrive they will increase the passenger rolling stock of the new railroad to seven, making it possible to handle an excursion crowd of several hundred. President Charles P. Hood of the road stated this morning that indications point to a busy summer in the excursion line.

Many improvements have been made at Killbuck Park, the pleasure resort on the Indian Creek Valley line. A big new lunch pavilion is in course of construction, an acetylene gas plant is being installed and improvements are being made to the artificial lakes.

The railroad up the valley is bringing trade to Connelleville. Mr. Hood says and the farmers of that section are beginning to patronize Connelleville institutions where before the railroad came they went to Mt. Pleasant.

LITTLE BAND MADE ESCAPE

Rescuing Companions' Over Whose Bodies They Stumbled, Getting Out of the Burning Pit by The Air Shaft. Women Frantic With Grief.

United Press Telegram. WHITE HAVEN, Eng., May 12.—One hundred and thirty-seven miners were either killed or are facing death in the Wellington coal mine as the result of an explosion this morning. Fire broke out in the mine shortly after the explosion and all entrances to the mine are now blocked. The force of the explosion also wrecked the main entry ways. About the bottom of the shaft the flames seem to be decreasing. So great is the volume of smoke issuing from the mine that practically all hope of rescuing any of the entombed men has been abandoned.

A few of the men who made their way out an air shaft state that scores of miners were killed outright by the force of the explosion. Others were driven back into the more remote sections of the mine by the hot air and smoke that followed the explosion and fire. The little band that got safely out of the pit brought with them half a dozen miners who had fallen exhausted, and who were only rescued by the most heroic efforts of their companions who stumbled across their bodies.

The report of the explosion had hardly sounded until wives and children of men at work in the pit surrounded the entrance to the shaft. Some of them, frantic in their grief, tried to jump into the shaft. The workings of the Wellington mine run out under the sea four miles. The Earl of Lonsdale is the owner of the mine.

WOMAN'S GENTLE NATURE CALLS FOR GENTLE TREATMENT

Delicately formed and gently reared women will find, in all the seasons of their lives, as maidens, wives or mothers, that the one simple, wholesome remedy which acts gently and pleasantly and naturally, and which may be used with truly beneficial effects, under any conditions, when the system needs a laxative, is—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

It is well known to be a simple combination of the laxative and carminative principles of plants with pleasant aromatic liquids, which are agreeable and refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system when its gentle cleansing is desired.

Only those who buy the genuine Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna can hope to get its beneficial effects, and as a guarantee of the excellence of the remedy, the full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is printed on the front of every package, and without it any preparation offered as Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is fraudulent and should be declined.

To those who know the quality of this excellent laxative, the offer of any substitute, when Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is called for, is always resented by a transfer of patronage to some first-class drug establishment, where they do not recommend, nor sell false brands, nor imitation remedies.

The genuine article may be bought of all reliable druggists everywhere; one size only. Regular price 50 cents per bottle. Get a bottle today to have in the house when needed.

Not until you have tried them on will you realize what splendid models they are made on—fitted tops and generous flounces.

You would think every one of them an excellent return for $2.00.

HEALTH OFFICERS AND POLICEMEN.

The presence of smallpox at Vanderbit brings home to us the fact that the importance of the Board of Health to every community, whether township, town or city, is seldom properly appreciated or supported.

The Board of Health should be manned by intelligent and public spirited members; its officers should be competent, vigilant and active; its efforts should be heartily seconded by the local authorities and the public generally. It is the guardian of the public health; it stands between the citizen and lingering illness or grim death; it has the first claim upon the public treasury, because its work is of the first importance. Without health there is seldom much happiness and without life all the wealth of the world, all the power of nations, all things earthly, fade into nothingness.

In view of these undeniable facts, it is strange that the average community is notoriously negligent in its health board appropriations. Intelligent and progressive public officials have seemed to think at times that a few hundred dollars annually is a high price to pay for the work of safeguarding the community against disease. THEY FORGET the thousands spent for doctors, nurses, medicines and attendance on sick persons; THEY FORGET the thousands spent on funeral wrappings and monuments; THEY FORGET, not only THE COMMERCIAL SIDE of the consequence of indifference to or neglect of the duty of protecting the public health, but THEY FORGET THE THIRTIETH PART OF THE COST IN HUMAN LIFE ITSELF!

Health board appropriations should be LIBERAL, and health boards should be more careful in the EXPENDITURE of their appropriations. No expense should be spared in adopting precautions against epidemics, for isolating contagious and infectious diseases and for the vigilant enforcement of good sanitary conditions; but there is no room in the health service for SINGULARS, and it is further from its intent and purpose to be the custodian of POLITICAL REWARDS. The Washington Reporter believes in liberal appropriations. It says:

The appropriation for the Board of Health should be not less than $5,000 in a town the size of Washington. At present the health ordinances are openly disregarded. As a result we had for many years of typhoid fever last year. They were due to non-observance of the ordinances enacted for the protection of the public.

Washington needs three or four health officers more than it needs police officers. An efficient health officer can save many lives and much sickness. Every life is worth thousands of dollars to the community. As a matter of economy and good business, therefore, it is worth while for a town to rightly enforce its health ordinance.

The Reporter advances a new proposition when it demands that the health officers be increased before the police force, but it is time the proposition was being impressed upon the people: IT IS TIME THE IMPORTANCE OF PROTECTING THE PEOPLE IN THEIR LIVES WAS GIVEN PRIOR CONSIDERATION OVER THE PROPOSITION TO PROTECT THEM IN THEIR PROPERTY. It is time to point out that good health is even more important than good order.

However we do not see why the work cannot be combined in an intelligent and efficient manner. A chief health officer is necessary, but there is no reason why every policeman should not be a deputy health officer, provided it is fairly understood that such deputies are active health officers, not incidental or ornamental to the department.

INEXPENSIVE
BUT INSISTENT.

The plea of the Chamber of Commerce for better street marking in Connelville is timely and proper. When free mail delivery was extended to Connelville one of the conditions was that the streets should be plainly placarded and the houses properly numbered. This was done at the time, and very thoroughly done, but in the intervening years many of the placards have been blown down, torn down, removed or destroyed, and a similar fate has befallen many of the house numbers.

When free delivery was established in Connelville there was another condition which had to be met, namely, a requirement that all sidewalks be placed in passable condition. Since that time some of the sidewalks have become much the worse for wear and the extension of the borough lines has brought into the town some streets without any sidewalks to speak of.

We not only cordially endorse the suggestions of the Chamber of Commerce, that missing street markers and house numbers be replaced, but we would add that sidewalk conditions be subjected to radical reform.

The root of the borough of the first proposition was the comparatively insignificant, and of the second nothing at all.

The Pennsylvania and the Lake Erie are pushing up the Monongahela river toward Morgantown, but it must not be assumed that they intend to pass Greene county entirely by. When the railroad is made into the Greene

The three fronts were followed by enough downpour to make a many rains, but the country needed the water.

J. V. Thompson has a warm spot for his alma mater.

The appearance of smallpox at Vanderbit is bringing the accurate pretty close to Connelville, but with proper precautions there is no reason to be panic-stricken. It should be remembered, however, that eternal vigilance on the part of the people as well as the health authorities is necessary to our immunity.

The citizens of Dunbar township do not want the Fayette county doctors' home located amongst them. They seem to think that it is an undesirable industry, though just why is hard to conceive.

The Monongahela River Coal and Coke Company finds it necessary every now and then to deny that it has sold out to the United States Steel Corporation. These denials must be kept in line with each other or there wouldn't be so much gossip.

54-40 OR FIGHT

BY EMERSON HOUGH
AUTHOR OF THE MISSISSIPPI RIDDLE
ILLUSTRATIONS BY MAGNUS G. KETNER
Copyright 1909 by E. B. Ketcher, Inc.

My chief, Mr. Calhoun, did not die until some six years after that first evening when Dr. Ward and I had our talk with him. He was said to have died of a disease of the lungs, yet there again history is curiously mistaken. Mr. Calhoun died himself, I sometimes think with a shudder that perhaps this was the revenge which Nemesis took of him for his mistakes. His last days were dream-like in their passing. His last speech in the senate was read by one of his friends, as Dr. Ward had advised him. Some said afterwards that his illness was that of a "sleeping sickness" imported from Africa, and that he was always in a strange state of mind. John Calhoun indeed died of his orator! At least he slept away. At least, too, he made his atonement. The south, following his doctrines, itself was thus accursed of this same sleeping sickness; but in the providence of God it was not lost to us, and is ours for a long and splendid history.

It was through John Calhoun, a grave and somber figure of our history, that we got the vast land of Texas. It was through him also—and not through Clay nor Jackson, nor any of the northern statesmen, who never could see a future for the west—that we got all of our best northwest realm. Within a few days after the Palo Alto battle, a memorandum of agreement was signed between Minister Pakenham and Mr. Buchanan, our secretary of state. This was done at the instance and by the aid of John Calhoun. It was he—himself and Helena von Ritz—who brought about that treaty which, on June 15, of the same year, was signed and finally signed, by the minister from Great Britain. The latter had been fully enough impressed (such was the story) by the reports of the columns of our west-bound farmers, with rifles leading at their wagon seats and plows lashed to the tail-gates. Calhoun himself never ceased to regret that we could not delay a year or two years longer. In this he was thwarted by the impetuous war with the republic on the south, although, had that never been fought, we had lost California—lost also the south, and lost the Union!

Under one form or other, one name of government or another, the flag of democracy eventually must float over all the continents. Not a part, but all of this country must be ours, must be the people's. It may cost more blood and treasure now. Some time we shall see the wisdom of John Calhoun; but some time, too, I think, we shall see come true that prophecy of a strange and brilliant mentality, which in Calhoun's presence, and in mine, said that all of these northern lands and all Mexico as well must one day be ours—which is to say, the people's—for the sake of human opportunity, of human hope and happiness. Our battles are but partly fought. But at least they are not, then, lost.

For myself, the close of the Mexican war found me somewhat worn by travel and my engagement in financial matters. I had been discouraged, I say, by my own government. My pay was withheld. Elizabeth, by that time my wife, was a girl reared in all the luxury that our country then could offer. Shall I say whether or not I prized her more when gladly she gave up all this and joined me for one more long and final journey out across that great trail which I had seen—the trail of democracy, of America, of the world?

At last we reached Oregon. It holds the grave of one of ours; it is the home of others. We were happy; we needed favor of no man; fear of no one did we feel. Elizabeth has in her life slept on a bed of husks. She has cooked at a "rooty" fireplace of her own; and at her cabin door I myself have been the guard. We made our way by ourselves and for ourselves, as did those who conquered America for our sake. "The citizen standing in the doorway of his home," England said, "is the Republic." So wrote a later pen.

It was not until long after the discovery of gold in California had set us all to thinking that I was reminded of the strange story of the old German, Von Littenhofen, of finding some pieces of gold while on one of his hunts for butterflies. I followed out his vague directions as best I might. We found gold enough to make us rich without our land. That claim is staked legally. Half of it awaits an owner who perhaps will never come.

There are those who will accept always the solemn asseverations of politicians, who by word of mouth or pen assert that this or that party made our country, wrote its history. Such as they might make it told that not even men, much less politicians, have written all our story as a nation; yet any who smile at woman's influence in American history do so in ignorance of the truth. Mr. Webster and Lord Ashburton have credit for determining our boundary on the northeast—Eskland called it Ashburton's capitulation to the Yankee. Did you never hear the other gossip? England laid all that to Ashburton's American devil look at that poor, hot-tempered devil, Yrulo, minister from Spain with us, who saw his king's holdings on this continent jugged from head to hand between us all. His wife was daughter of George McKean of Pennsylvania powder. If she had no influence with her husband, so much the worse for her. In important times a generation ago M. Genet, of France, as all know, was the husband of the daughter of Gov. Clinton of New York. Did that hurt our chances with France? My Lord Oswald of Great Britain, who is galled over our treaty of peace in 1782—was not his worldly fortune made by virtue of his American wife? All of us should remember that Marbois, Napoleon's minister, who signed the great treaty for him with us, married his wife while he was a mere "chango" here in Washington; and she, too, was an American. Erskine, of England, when times were strained in 1803, and later—and our friend for the most part—was he not also husband of an American? It was as John Calhoun said—our history, like that of England and France, like that of Rome and Greece, was made in large part by women.

Of that strange woman, Helena, Baroness von Ritz, I have never definitely heard since then. But all of us have heard of that great uplift of central Europe, that ferment of revolution, most noticeable in Germany, in 1848. Out of that revolutionary spirit there came to us thousands and thousands of our best population, the sturdy and the most liberty-loving citizens this country ever had. They gave us scores of generals in our late war, and gave us at least one cabinet officer. But whence came that spirit of revolution in Europe? Why does it live, grow, increase, even now? Why does it sound now, closer to the oldest thrones? Where originated that germ of liberty which did its work so well? I am at least one who believes that I could guess something of its source. The revolution in Hungary failed for the time. Kossuth came to see us with pleas that we might aid Hungary. But republics forget. We gave no aid to Hungary. I was far away and did not meet Kossuth. I should have been glad to question him. I did not forget Helena von Ritz, nor doubt that she worked out. In full that strange destiny for which, indeed, she was born and prepared, to which she devoted herself, made clean by sacrifice. She was not one to leave her work undone. She, I know, passed on her torch of principle.

Elizabeth and I speak often of Helena von Ritz. I remember her still—brilliant, beautiful, fascinating, compelling, pathetic, tragic. If it was asked of her, I know that she still paid it gladly—all that sacrifice through which alone there can be worked out the progress of humanity, under that idea which blindly we attempted to express in our Declaration; that idea which at times we may forget, but which eventually must triumph for the good of all the world. She helped us make our map. Shall not that for which she stood help us hold it?

At least, let me say, I have thought this little story might be set down; and, though some to-day may smile at flags and principles, I should like, if I may be allowed, to close with the words of yet another man of those earlier times: "The old flag of the Republic was my protector in infancy and the pride and glory of my riper years; and, by the grace of God, under its shadow I shall die!"

GOOD PAPER FROM BAMBOO

Its Use Promises to Insure to the World an Endless Supply— Idea Not New.

For years we have read how the paper pulp mills are devastating our forests; gloomy statisticians have been telling us how many square miles of spruce and fir are sacrificed each year to keep the printing presses running; with the consumption exceeding the new growth and with added demands each year, we are told that a paper famine is inevitable. Now comes word from that land of many surprises—that perhaps the world's future supply of paper will come from the thickets of Formosa; a company has been formed to exploit the bamboo on a commercial scale.

Making paper from bamboo is no new thing. The Chinese have done it for centuries, but their methods of to-day are the same as those used hundreds of years ago. The Japanese way of doing things is different. This Matsui Bishi company has been making experiments at a scientific station, and will use methods as up to date as those in any American mill. The government has granted it a perpetual lease of 8,000 acres in Formosa, and the production of 300 tons of pulp a month, which is already arranged for, can easily be doubled. There will be no trouble about a supply of raw material for bamboo grows in inches in a night.

The interest of papermakers of the world will be centered for the next year or so upon this Formosa pulp factory and the mills at Koba, where its product will be converted into paper.

Little Revenue. "Is there any money in poetry?" inquired the hopeful amateur. "Not for me," replied the editor. "Few poets are able to pay for more than one insertion."

Danderine

and we can PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes:
"As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention it is due. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to, and the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention it is due. It is to expect it to grow and become more beautiful, to lose its hair is caused by the scalp drying up or losing its supply of moisture and nutriment; when under such conditions the hair simply falls out, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (in a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions).

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and revitalize the scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowledge of Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair roots or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

Our recent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD.

Pittsburg Director of Public Works Must Face Charges.

Pittsburg, May 12.—Charges of perjury, subornation of perjury, forgery and false pretenses have been made by the Voters' League against Director Joseph G. Armstrong of the Pittsburg department of public works. Informations were made by Tensard DeWolfe, secretary of the league, and all are based on alleged padding of city payrolls to compensate laborers for the time spent at the polls on election day last November.

Armstrong gave $10,000 bill for a hearing next Monday afternoon. After furnishing bond Director Armstrong, at the suggestion of Clarence Burleigh, his attorney, made this statement:

"The only thing I will say now is that in the conduct of my office as director of the department of public works I have never done anything morally wrong or criminally wrong. My acts and my record are open to public inspection. The only thing I demand is a speedy, public trial, in which my complete vindication is assured."

BLAMES HARVESTER TRUST

Fanner Thinks It Ought to Share Responsibility For High Prices.

Washington, May 12.—The International Harvester company, better known to the farmers and politicians as the "Harvester trust," was credited with a share of the responsibility for high prices by J. B. Power, a wealthy farmer of Power, N. D., at the hearing on high prices before the senate select committee.

Mr. Power declared that harvester agents, in the halcyon days before competition was stifled, pursued the farmers and the prices of a good harvesting machine was $35. Now a farmer pays $130 and had to look for the trust's representatives when he would purchase.

GREEN ROOM CHAT.

THE SOISSON.

Last night at the Soisson the Howell Keith Stock Company presented a new play entitled "The Day of Judgment," a rural comedy with many funny incidents and strong characterizations.

N. Alvarez was in great favor in his characterization of John Stone, and Ethel Desmond again demonstrated her ability as a clever leading lady. The whole company merited praise and if applause can be judged for anything not anything was lacking in enthusiasm. William Dyer, the heavyweight comedian, has the part of the career of Dennis O'Donnell in this play and it will be repeated tonight for the last performance.

"Tomorrow night brings the musical drama, 'A Child of the Regiment,' with many patriotic musical numbers. Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 P. M. The Great Kenneth will do his public bidding folded drive through the main streets of Connelville in search of a hidden article placed in some obscure although accessible spot by a committee of unknown men. The fair sex was certainly tendered a useful article free of charge last night when 600 pieces of glassware were distributed to the ladies in the audience. Saturday matinee the children fall heir to an acceptable present. Upon special request to the management "Snapho" is underlined for three performances next week Monday and Tuesday nights and Wednesday matinee. This celebrated play will undoubtedly attract crowds as it contains many interesting scenes. Wednesday night will be omitted next week owing to a previous booking and "Lena Rivers" will be given only on Thursday night. "Across the Desert" will be given Friday and Saturday of next week. The Tuberculosis Often Develops From Pneumonia.

Consumption readily attacks those who have had Pneumonia. Many sufferers from tuberculosis give a history of having pneumonia. The lungs thus weakened are more easily attacked by the germs that caused consumption. For all those with "weak lungs" especially those who have had pneumonia, Eckman's Alternative is the appropriate remedy. Cures of consumption are accomplished by Eckman's Alternative. But take it in time. There is no wisdom in waiting until Tuberculosis is established. Health is never fully valued until sickness comes. "I wish I had known of Eckman's Alternative two years ago. Since taking it I have gained twenty-eight pounds and I cannot but be very thankful to you and the Almighty God for the great blessing and change of health it has brought me." Thomas Heilly, 1422 Broadway, Camden, N. J. Eckman's Alternative is good for all Throat and Lung troubles, and is on sale in Connelville by W. A. Delichioy in Dunbar by Harry McElhiney, and other Druggists. It can also be obtained at, or procured by, your local Druggist. DESCRIBE DROP THROUGH SPACE.

Balloonist Forbes Tells of Their Thrilling Descent.

LOST CONTROL OF AIR CRAFT

Although Battered and Dazed, Forbes and Companion Are Little the Worse
For the Experience—Balloon Went Through Two Snowstorms.

St. Louis, Mo., May 12.—(Sally) battered, wrenched and bruised but not seriously injured from their fall of 300 feet, A. Holland Forbes, the noted balloonist who won the Latham cup at the St. Louis balloon races in 1906, and James Harrington Yates, amateur astronomer and wealthy young club man of New York, were found in the log home of Joseph B. Yates, a Green county farmer.

Mr. Forbes said he wanted to broaden record held by Count Dookanov, who covered a distance of 1,300 miles in 1909, and that of Colonel Schreck, who in 1909 remained in the air seventy-two hours.

His companion had another purpose. Mr. Yates is wealthy and has a liking for astronomy. The ascent was his initial experience in aeronautics. He had with him a telescope and photographic apparatus and his chief desire was to learn something new about Halley's comet. While he does not claim to have learned any of the family secrets of the wanderer, Mr. Yates believes he secured some remarkable pictures taken at a height of about 15,000 feet.

Story of Flight.

Here is Mr. Forbes' story of the flight:

"When at the elevation of 15,000 feet at 4 o'clock Thursday morning we went through our first snowstorm. An hour later we passed through the second flurry when, at a height of 15,400 feet, we made a record at 2 o'clock in the afternoon when we reached the extreme altitude of 20,600 feet, higher by 2,000 feet than any authorized record ever made in America.

"In descending from the great elevation we had very little wind left and as the gas contracted the balloon became extremely flabby. Everything, however, went well until we were a few hundred feet above the ground when the appendix line broke loose from the ring supporting the basket. There was so little gas in the bag at the time that the rigging collapsed and with the basket attached naturally dropped. This caused the rip cord which is attached to the ring to rip open the balloon at the height of 300 feet from the ground. I cannot describe the sensation of that 300 feet to the ground. It came so suddenly.

"I have a faint recollection of seeing men below me in a plowed field and subconsciously trying, it seemed, to tilt up the bucket that Mr. Yates and I might spring free from the rigging when close to the ground. Because the basket did not tilt, as it would have done under ordinary circumstances, was the cause of our injury. I believe the only thing that prevented the breaking of our backs when the basket fell bottom squarely down under the weight of the bag was the rubber air mattress which we had placed in the bottom of the basket that we might be comfortable when we wanted to lie down.

"For a moment I was stunned by the impact, when I recovered and saw two or three men coming to our aid. They extricated us and on improvised litters we were carried to this house. I tell you we were so badly shaken up we could not move."

SEES DAUGHTERS DROWN

Frankie Mother Helpless to Save Her Three Girls in Pool.

Wamette, Okla., May 12.—Three daughters of T. C. Coffey were drowned in Ponk creek near Wamette. The youngest, aged twelve, stepped into a deep pool and sank. The next oldest tried to save her as she rose to the surface and both went down to be followed by Jessie, the oldest, who plunged into water fifteen feet deep in a frantic effort to save the others.

Their mother, who stood in the shallow water, saw her daughters sink and leaped into the pool, but was rescued by a man who happened to be crossing the stream just as she was sinking.

RUSHING WORK AT ARDEN

Approaching Marriage of Miss Harriman Causes Great Bustle.

Middletown, N. Y., May 12.—The approaching marriage of Miss Mary Harriman, which it is said will take place at the country mansion on Tower hill, at Arden, Orange county, is causing great activity on the Harriman estate at that place.

The house, which was the pride of the late E. H. Harriman, is now occupied by 150 carpenters, decorators and painters who have been directed to have a certain number of rooms in readiness on the day of the wedding.

John D. Sets New Fashion.

Tarrytown, N. Y., May 12.—John D. Rockefeller has set a fashion—the wearing of paper vests. He puts one on every time he goes out riding in his auto. He slips it on underneath his cloth vest and says it is the finest thing he ever had for keeping out the air, the chill of which he still notices when motoring at high speed.

A BOXING TREAT IS PROMISED GREENSBURG

When Patsy Brannigan and Young
Ziringer Clash There Next Monday Night.

Though the fight-patrons of this section appeared to be waiting impatiently at one stage over the delay in bringing Patsy Brannigan and Young Ziringer together for a bout of a decisive length, it develops that the wait was all in their favor and they may now look forward to the 15 round clash at Greensburg next Monday night with a feeling of assurance and safety that could not have been possible under other conditions.

For it has been learned that not only did Promoter Fred W. Kelly purposefully delay the match until he was sure that the public's interests would be protected, but that in this he had the assistance of Ziringer, who positively refused to consider a match until he could satisfy himself that no spurious results were to follow the fight sustained to his arm in his bout with Mike Malone. "The Dutchman" realized that it would be futile suicide for him to go against Brannigan in a 15 round bout with any part of his fighting apparatus out of gear, and Promoter Kelly was equally determined not to stage the fight until he knew the fans would get what they expected. Happily it has all turned out for the best, for if Ziringer had any fears that his arm would not come around they have been dispelled and the injured member is now as sound as it ever was.

All of which adds to the assurance of a great battle next Monday, and one that will be decided strictly on the fighting merits of the rival bantams, as in the matter of fitness both are sure to present the best form of their careers. Quite a delegation of Connellsville fight fans will witness the fight.

Reasons Why Particular

Men
should always wear clothes made to their measure:

No two men are proportioned exactly alike—hence only apparel made from exact measurements can fit EXACTLY—then too, the fabrics the linings, the trimmings, the making and styles are decidedly better than in ready made—wear our kind.
